United Pump and Controls, Inc.

Dear B.J.:

Thank you for all of United Pump and Controls planning and hard work on the fuel equipment and management software replacement project for Fulton County Schools (FCS). The logistics of this project were extremely challenging as FCS replaced all of the fuel dispensers and pumps at both the north and south side fueling facilities and converted our fuel management system to Fuelmaster. With more than 900 buses and a utility fleet of approximately 300 vehicles it was not an easy project considering the 90 day time constraint. The project was further complicated by a lack of redundancy at the south side fueling facility and a project requirement that FCS and our city partners, Roswell and Alpharetta, always have access to fuel.

United Pump's project manager, Travis Benton, was extremely attentive to the logistical needs of the Transportation Department as buses and vehicles were often rerouted during construction to allow piping modifications to the fuel islands. He was equally attentive to the training needs of FCS's transportation maintenance group as they installed the vehicle equipment for the new fuel management software. Through diligent, persistent, hard effort and customer responsiveness, Travis kept the project on track, under budget and moving forward.

In addition, your personal engagement with the project and the transportation department's leadership was calming and reassuring. Providing transportation to a district of more than 90,000 students is a large responsibility and your interest in the day to day concerns of the transportation department and the ability to communicate effectively with them was greatly appreciated.

I truly believe the success of this project was contingent upon selecting the right contractor and United Pump was the right contractor. Please feel free to call on me if you need a reference for future work and I sincerely hope we have an opportunity to work together again.

Sincerely

Susan L. Simpson, PE
Project Manager
